Liberty Bay Wins Champions

YESTERDAY'S RACE MEETING HELD IN POURING RAIN

Tiny Star Wins Subs' Classic

(BY "MORNING DEW")

Liberty Bay won the Champions for the Dunbar stable yesterday and once again proved conclusively that he is the best China pony in the Colony. Tremt bridge put up a gallant but unavailing race and never at any moment looked as though he was going to catch up with Liberty Bay, who led all the way home. Gleneagles was the only other starter, but he finished a poor third.

Tiny Star won the Sports Club Cup from a very classy field which included Bold Marshall and Classic Hall. Cavalcade abstained from this race, but started later in the afternoon where he won.

The candidates of Messrs. Kong Bros' stable, Electric Star, and New Star, both won. Mr. D. S. Li accounted for both "legs" in the "Daily Doubles" and paid out the smallest dividend in four days, successful punters getting only $22.70 for their selections.

The Champion sweeps paid $46,389.70 for first prize. The winning numbers will be found in another column.

Kong Brothers Have Good Day

LEIGHTON HILL STAKES

There were no fewer than twenty-one starters in the first race, where Chesternfield ridden by Mr. Marshall, won from Sarabande ridden by Mr. Heard. The two ponies were together at the distance post, but Chesternfield stayed better and won. Red Fox looked like being placed, but failed in the last fifty yards when Ironsides and Soldier of Italy passed him.

GRAND STAND STAKES

After missing the Maiden, where he was beaten by Soldier of Britain, Electric Star made amends for her defeat by winning the Grand Stand Stakes in a close finish with Macaroni. Mr. Y. S. Chang took third place with King's Fancy, just ousting The Redshank.

LADIES PURSE

Diary Bay won the Ladies Purse, from Cossack's Beauty and Hetman in a race in which she led all the way home. Cossack's Beauty came quite close at the distance post. Hetman was a poor third.

ADELAIDE STAKES

Racing Heart, starting in this race ran very well and accounted for Princess Angeline and Polar Star. The winner was comfortably placed all the way and came along nicely to win in the straight. City of Brisbane set a fast pace at the start, but petered out after half mile.

LUSITANO'S CUP

There were seven contenders for the Lusitano Cup, and the public made Electric Star the favourite. The pony won with Bright View finishing second and Gladiator third. Two good ponies in Soldier of Britain and Prima Donna were soundly beaten in this race.

BLUE MOUNTAINS PLATE

Bobbiak Star took a long lead in the race but the early effort proved his undoing. Bronze Era was nicely placed all the way and looked a winner coming into the straight. Here Bag Tor challenged and ultimately beat him. The Goose filled third place, just beating High Finance.

JOCKEY CUP

Charming Star with Mr. Yue Shun Wah up won the novices event from Mayflower, ridden by Mr. W. H. Choy. Mr. P. P. Botelho on Spinaway managed third place. Weybridge, Mr. Black up, was heavily backed, was unplaced.

HONGKONG STAKES

Classic Hall the favourite for the Hongkong Stakes was beaten out of a place in the long race where Tiny Star, Surprise, and Soldier of Fortune finished in a line in that order. The last named ran surprisingly well here. Classic Hall was in front most of the way (behind Racing Spirit), but the last half mile found him out.

GRIFFINS CONSOLATION STAKES

New Star, Lemberg and Budge finished in that order in a field of thirteen starters which included Soldier of Germany, who led until the Rock and then rapidly faded but King's Worthy ran well, but could not stock the pace at the finish.

NORTHERN STAKES

Cavalcade started a hot favourite for this race and just won from En Good Time after a fine run in the home straight. Chow Fan making the pace, stayed on to finish third while King Willow, who was second favourite, finished unplaced.

CONSOLATION STAKES

Brechin, King's Justice, Navy Hall, Flying Tourist and The Tiger were the starters in the last race of the day and they finished in that order. Brechin running beautifully and leading all the way home. King's Justice ran well to take second place, but Navy Hall did not seem to like the wet going.

PINEAPPLE BETTY

This is a simple dessert that is sure to please.

Two cups finely chopped or shredded pineapple, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 cup water or pineapple, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 cup water or pineapple juice.

Melt butter in frying pan, add bread crumbs and brown lightly. Put a layer of crumbs in a buttered baking dish, cover with a layer of pineapple and sprinkle very sparingly with cinnamon. Continue layer for layer of pineapple and crumbs until all are used, making the top layer of crumbs. Pour liquid over the pudding and dot with bits of butter. Cover baking dish and bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven and then remove cover to brown top. Serve warm with hard sauce or cold with cream.

A QUICK WAY TO MAKE COCONUT ICE

Roll a pound of icing sugar, and add to it not quite half a pound of very fine desiccated coconut. Mix well in a fairly large basin. Mix ready some boiling milk. Make a hole in the middle of the coconut mixture, pour in a little milk, and mix with a fork to a stiff paste.

Take out half of the mixture and shape it into a block. Colour the other half pink with cochineal, or brown with cocoa, and shape this also into a block. Brush the white ice with a little milk, and put the coloured ice on it. Place a piece of greaseproof paper on the top, stand a weight on this, and leave to dry.

What is the difference between a very wet day and a lion distracted with tooth-ache?

Ans.—One is pouring with rain and the other is roaring with pain.

Why does a duck go under water, and why does it come out again?

Ans.—It goes under for divers reasons and comes out again for sundry (sun-dry) purposes.

LOVELY PERFUMES

Perfume is the essence of beauty, the finishing touch, the last and loveliest illusion. It is so much more than just a scent. It is an expression of personality.

Choose a perfume that will express you. A flower scent if you are young; something more subtle if you are sophisticated.

PETAL SOFT AND LILY WHITE

Smooth hands and shining nails are a beauty every woman can possess.

If gardening or housework has to be done, protective gloves should be worn. A little lotion rubbed in after washing will keep the skin smooth, and an excellent way of whitening the hands is to mix some glycerine with a little sour milk and apply it once a day.

Nails that are inclined to be brittle should be massaged round

For Your Notebook

Aluminium Pans, before being used, should be rubbed over with a special soap and steel wool, and then rinsed thoroughly in hot water. Tiny holes appear they are caused by careless treatment, such as boiling dry, use of soda, or denting by dropping on floor, and so on.

Black Satin, if artificial, must be washed in barely lukewarm water, and pressed with a cool iron.

If real silk, wash by squeezing in warm soapy water, using soap flakes and not powders. Rinse in warm water, and then in cold, till merely damp, and iron on the wrong side with a moderate iron. Air immediately after ironing.

"Gold Braid On" Uniforms can be cleaned with a paste of methylated spirit and French chalk. Rub on, leave to dry, brush off, and polish with tissue paper.

Grease Stains On Pillow Slips can be removed by rubbing thickly with wet soap. Roll up pillow slip in warm water for 2 hours, softening the water by using 4oz. of washing soda to every 3 gallons of water. Remove, and wash in hot softened water, rubbing the stain with block soap and using a great deal of friction. Then rinse and boil in the usual way.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

If you are indoors a great deal make a point of walking for a little while every morning. Exercise is an enormous help towards fitness, and walking is certainly one of the best of exercises. It stimulates the circulation, aids the digestive organs, and gives a general feeling of well-being.

It is quite a good idea to have some beauty treatment during the early days of summer, when the light gets so much brighter and shows up dull complexions. Much that is done in the salon can be carried on afterwards, and a great deal can be learned by carefully observing the treatment as it is given.

SPRING MODE

Reversible linen and wool materials are the smart new fore-runners of the Spring mode. Fine woollens irregularly stitched with bumpy raw linen thread are also interesting.

the hair with a little olive oil or vasoline. Manicures can be carried out quite simply at home, especially in these days when there are so many inexpensive manicure sets on the market.

SAVOURY EGG RAMEKINS

For six people allow six eggs, one and a half ounces butter, one gill cream, five teaspoonsful chopped parsley, and chives mixed, four tomatoes. You will also need breadcrumbs, cayenne, salt, paprika, and a bay leaf.

Butter six small ramekin dishes. Mix together the breadcrumbs, parsley and chives, adding salt and cayenne to taste. Line the ramekins with this mixture, break an egg into each, and add a small piece of bay leaf, a little butter, a dash of cream, and two slices of tomato arranged one each side of the egg. Cover with bread-crumbs, sprinkle with paprika, and cook in a hot oven until the eggs are just set. Sprinkle with with chopped parsley, and serve at once.

Make-up Has Such Charming Graces

Make-up is the magic by which a woman may mould herself "nearer to the heart's desire." If she lacks colour she can supply it, but it must be put on so carefully that it is nothing more than a delicate flush on her cheeks. It should be matched to the tones of the skin and blended softly in, so that no hard edges are visible.

Lipstick must be chosen to match and powder should be selected with care, both as regards texture and shade. If the skin is inclined to be red, green powder will help greatly to tone it down.

Choose your eye shadow to go with your eyes, and remember it is only intended to be a shadow. If the eye-lashes are scanty, there are eyelash creams that not only make them grow, but darken them at the same time, and little curlers that give them a most becoming curve.

SNOW PUDDING

1 1/2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
4 tablespoons cold water
1 cup boiling water
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1 cup lemon juice
Whites of 3 eggs

Mixing time: 1 hour. Chilling time: 3 hours. Servings: 4 to 8.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. And boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add sugar and lemon juice. Place in a pan of ice water until mixture is cool and sirupy. Beat with egg beater until foamy. Add whites of eggs, beaten until stiff and dry and continue beating mixture until it will hold its shape. Turn into a mold firm dipped in cold water, and chill for several hours. Unmold and serve with custard sauce made with yolks of eggs.

HOW TO COOK

Dried Fruits

Many wholesome fruit confections can be made from raisins and other dried fruits. When chopped or minced, and moistened with a little honey or evaporated milk, raisins make a nutritious and toothsome sandwich filling.

It should be remembered that dried fruit must be cooked carefully and properly. The fruit must be well washed because it has often been exposed. It is therefore necessary to separate the pieces, before soaking, so that they will remain shapely while regaining their original moisture. It takes time to put back into the dried fruit the large amount of water lost by evaporation.

Therefore the dry fruit needs a long soaking—twenty-four hours is not too much. It should be clear that this soaking is to be done in water after the fruit has been washed. That is, the soaking water should be also the cooking water, for it is a great mistake to soak dried fruit and then throw the soaking water away.

Next, as to the manner of cooking. Since the pieces are really only delicate pulp they must be cooked very slowly and always over a low fire. If cooked rapidly, or over a hot fire they are bound to break in shape, and to become an unpleasant mass. The word "simmer" exactly expresses the manner and temperature of cooking all dried fruit.

In many cases, almost no cooking is required, if the soaking has been sufficiently long. For example, seedless raisins are delicious as a breakfast fruit if they have been treated to a long soaking which will expand them and soften them. Even prunes require but a very short simmering—long cooking makes the skins leathery.

Sandwiches To Serve At Tea Highly Varied

THINLY SLICED BREAD MAY HAVE ANY ONE OF DOZENS OF FILLINGS

If you are planning to entertain in any informal fashion sandwiches usually come into mind. Used with tea or as a salad accompaniment, they always are popular.

The modern version is a far cry from the original "two slices of bread with a thin layer of filling between," because the most alluring of sandwiches uses but one slice of bread and the filling is anything but "thin." This "open face" sandwich can be varied almost indefinitely. It can be made and garnished so picturesquely that it looks more like a confection than a sandwich. Cream cheese softened with heavy cream makes an effective border piped around the edge. Stuffed olives, sweet pickled cucumber rings, a pickled watermelon ring, a bright tart jelly, pimento, rice hard-cooked egg yolk, any well seasoned sandwich mixture, a fine shrimp in a border of capers—all these and many more materials can be used for the center of the cheese border.

Since the Bread Thin Graham, white, rye, Boston brown bread or whole bread can be used for the foundation. The bread should be sliced thin and cut in rounds not more than two inches in diameter. Small diamonds and hearts can also be cut and it adds much to the attractiveness of the finished tray of sandwiches if the shapes are varied. The ways to decorate these sandwiches are innumerable.

For ribbon sandwiches, use two kinds of bread and cut the bread in thick, lengthwise slices, piling them up in alternating layers. For "checkerboards," cut again in thick slices and pile one above the other, being sure that the dark and white breads alternate. Wrap tightly in waxed paper and put in a cold place for an hour or longer.

Then slice about three-eighths of an inch thick. Butter each slice of bread evenly but lightly and put together with different fillings. The filling must be quite smooth and not so moist as to soak the bread. A seasoned butter is often used and is very satisfactory when several varieties of assorted sandwiches are served.

For rolled sandwiches remove crusts and slice bread lengthwise of the loaf. Spread each slice with creamed butter and then with a smooth filling. Roll up closely. Spread one end of each graham roll with softened butter and roll in grated pistachio nuts. Spread the end of each white roll with softened butter and roll in grated yellow cheese. Of course any dry materials that will cling to the butter can be used but the yellow cheese and green nuts are suggested on account of their colour.

HOME-MADE PLATE POWDER

Put one pound of (whiting into a fine muslin bag and suspend the bag from a stick over a jug of cold water, so that the whiting is immersed. Leave for twenty-four hours. Pour off the water, let the sediment dry on a tray in the sun or in a cool oven, then roll it to a powder and mix with it half-pounce jeweller's rouge. Use the powder with a little water.

MANDARIN MARMALADE

As mandarin oranges do not contain sufficient pectin or acid to produce a good setting marmalade, it is necessary to introduce either lemons or limes. The following recipe, which has recently been evolved, produces a very palatable preserve.

9 mandarins
1½ lb. loaf or granulated sugar
3 limes
2½ pints of water
Squeeze the juice from the mandarins and limes, and then shred the rinds of both as thinly as possible. Put the juice, rind, and the water into a saucepan, bring to the boil slowly and simmer gently for 30 minutes or until the rind is quite soft. The time will depend to some extent on the shredding—if the rinds are finely shredded the cooking time will naturally be shorter. Add the sugar, boil for 5 minutes and then test for jelling. This recipe produces about 3 lb. of marmalade.

"POTATOES DON'T FATTEN YOU"

Marketing Chief Gives Women Advice

"I want women to realise that potatoes don't fatten and that they can eat them and still maintain their slim outline," said Captain John Mollett, Chairman of the Potato Marketing Board, speaking at Holland (Lincs) potato show at Spalding on the new potato marketing scheme to be launched soon.

That, he said, was the considered opinion of a well-known dietitian, and he wanted the fact to go home.

A new source of revenue was open to growers, he said, if they could secure the market for potato crisps, the manufacturers of which would give them their business if growers could produce the right kind of potato.

Cut up and trim the poultry and game, dip each piece into flour, and fry in the hot butter until delicately browned, then fry the sliced onion. Dish the meat, pour the tomato

PRAWN AND PINEAPPLE SALAD

For light luncheons it is useful to know of a new and delicious salad which may be easily prepared. Prawn and pineapple salad is very popular among women. One cup of shopped pineapple should be mixed with a full cup of prepared prawns. Add two sprigs of chopped olive and salad and pepper to taste. Arrange on a bag of crisp lettuce leaves and pour over salad dressing. If desired a few chopped nut.

FRUIT SALAD

When sliced oranges are added to a fresh fruit salad they frequently make the salad a little bitter. To avoid any danger of this slight sourness the orange quarters should be placed on a separate dish for a time and sprinkled with a pinch of salt. The salt will soon banish any bitter flavour and make the oranges sweet. Leave them for about fifteen minutes and then they may safely be added to the fruit. The appearance of a fruit salad is often marred by the apples having become discoloured. This can be avoided if the apples are sliced into a bowl of cold water and allowed to remain there until the salad is ready to be served. Then drain them and stir into the other fruit.

FRENCH WAYS WITH FISH

We can divide the cooking of fish into three classes: cooking by boiling, by frying and miscellaneous methods. The latter should be prepared according to whatever recipe you are using, but for the first two, which are the more usual, there are certain general rules which should be observed.

"To get the best results from 'boiled fish,' the fish should not be boiled in plain water, but in a 'court bouillon,' which makes all the difference to the flavour of the fish."

Even the dullest of plain boiled fish can be made delicious if cooked in this way and served, say, with a "Sauce Hollandaise" or even with melted butter and lemon juice.

When "frying fish" we must take great care that the cleaned and prepared fish is wiped quite dry, before dropping it into the boiling fat.

If you have fried fish often, the best plan is to keep a separate frying basket for fish only. The best fat is (perhaps a mixture in equal parts of pork and beef (the part round the kidney), which you melt yourself and clarify from time to time by dropping a little cold water into the fat while it is hot. (This must be done with care as it makes the hot fat splutter in all directions.) After this clarification all bits of gritty matter will drop to the bottom and you then pass the fat through a muslin.

The most important thing about the actual frying is that the fat must be really boiling before you put in the fish; this can be judged when you see a thin blue smoke arising from the pan or basket. When the fish is cooked, drain off all the fat and stand the fish on paper (in a hot place) for a few minutes—this will absorb all the fat. Sprinkle with salt and serve at once.

RECIPES
Court Bouillon (Liquid for boiling fish). Put in a saucepan two pints of water, a carrot, an onion and onion stuck with cloves and thyme, parsley and bay leaf tied together. Add salt, coarsely ground peppercorns and a table-spoonful of wine vinegar. Cook for twenty minutes before putting in the fish, which should poach gently until cooked.

Rouget au Beurre Blanc (Red Mullet). Clean the red mullet, dry them well, make a few cuts with a sharp knife across the fish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, paint with olive oil and grill them on both sides on a moderate fire for about ten to fifteen minutes (five to eight minutes for each side). Put the fish in a hot serving-dish and serve with a "Beurre Blanc" sauce either poured over or in a hot sauce boat.

WHAT THE PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW

GOOD HEALTH is priceless. Unfortunately with the majority of us it is not permanent. Headaches—Nerve Strain—Cold and Flu attacks are everyday complaints, and minor complaints can develop into serious possibilities. ## SERVING LIVER FOR VARIETY

A Change from Chops and Stews

We housewives are very apt to get into a rut in our table service, and serve the same old stock dishes over and over again, instead of varying our menus and improving our dietary by the use of some of the less commonly served foods.

Steaks, chops, roasts, and stews succeed each other in more or less regular order, but these might well at times give place to some other meat dishes which would add variety at moderate cost. Take liver, for instance. You don't like it? That may be because you haven't had it properly served—just tried until it is hard and leathery, so that it is wonder it is unpalatable.

Cook Slowly
Liver is exceedingly rich in nitrogen and also in its vitamin contents, but since our medical men discovered its wonderful food values it has gone up in price amazingly.

While some may claim that liver is difficult of digestion, that is apt to be because it is not cooked slowly enough, or perhaps not thoroughly mastered. Cal's liver ranks highest in cost, but both lamb's and beef liver are good and palatable if carefully prepared.

Ways of Serving
There are many interesting and appetising ways of serving liver. Because of its leanness, liver needs some form of fat served as an adjunct to it or blended with it; that is why we have liver and bacon. It is the reason also for the covering of braised liver with pork fat or bacon.

When used in combination with some starchy vegetable and some iron of acid, liver forms a rounded, balanced ration for occasional use and is particularly adapted to service as a one-plate meal.

A Delicacy
Then, don't forget that chicken livers are great delicacies. It seems foolish to roast the liver with the chicken or to chop it up in the gravy, which is really good enough without this addition, when by laying it aside, one may have a choice of attractive dishes for breakfast or luncheon next day, such as chicken liver omelet, livers en brochette, timbales, curried livers, etc.

Use Liver for variety: cook it slowly and take special care to masticate it thoroughly. Have you ever tried French fried liver? Cut lamb's or calf's liver into 1½-inch squares. Roll in flour to which salt and pepper have been added and fry about one and a half minutes in hot deep fat. Garnish with strips or curls of bacon and cut lime and serve with or without tomato sauce.

CHESTNUT SOUP

Chestnuts have been very much in the news of late, and perhaps this recipe for Chestnut Soup may be useful.

Shell, blanch, and peel half a pound of chestnuts. Put them into a saucepan with a couple of ounces of butter and a finely chopped small onion, put on the lid, and let them cook gently for half an hour when they should be soft enough to pass through a fine sieve.

To the ensuing purée add pepper and salt, a little brown sugar if you like, and enough stock to thin it down to the consistency

POTATO SALAD

Take 1½ lb. cooked new potatoes, 2 hard boiled eggs, 4 pins salad dressing, 2 medium tomatoes, 1 teaspoonful chopped spring onion, a little chopped parsley, a few radishes, mustard and cress, and seasoning. Slice the potatoes and radishes and eggs, place in layers in the salad bowl, sprinkling each layer with a little chopped onion, seasoning, parsley and salad dressing. Repeat the layers till all ingredients are used, coat with salad dressing and garnish with radishes cut into rose shapes and mustard and cress.

Kentish Pudding Pies
Make some good short pastry or rough puff-pastry. Line 12 pattypans with it, and make this mixture: Mix 4 oz. of ground rice to a cream with a little cold milk and boil the remains of 1 gill of milk. Then stir it into the ground rice and stir over the fire until it thickens. Add 4 oz. each of butter and sugar and a few currants, and when the mixture cools add the egg, well beaten. Then divide the mixture evenly in the tins and bake in a quick oven 5 to 10 minutes.

SMILE AWHILE

Now that young Dashleigh's father has given him a car he is just like a vacuum cleaner.

How so?
He goes round picking up all the little bits of dirt he can find. Wife's Mother (to gardening son-in-law): "I hope you're being careful when you dig up a worm, Richard. Remember it can feel and think just as well as you can."

required. Simmer for five or six minutes, and at the last stir in a teaspoonful or less of lemon juice. Serve with fried croutons.

The Adventures Of A Red Camera Man

FILMING THE FASHIONS WITH FOX

The lot of the newsreel cameramen is not always an enviable one but there are times when their work appears to be more fascinating than any other occupation in the world. One very good example of this is when they have to film the fashions and proof of this may be had by a visit to the King's Theatre any time from Thursday to Saturday when "Walls of Gold" the feature film will be preceded by a really intriguing "short" entitled "Filming the Fashions."

This picture covers a period from the "Flannel Nineties" to the present day and the advance, or retreat as the case may be, made by women's dresses from fur coats to bathing suits and afternoon frocks to nighties is emphasised in no uncertain way.

It was rather fun to see the flappers of the old days in what they considered "proper attire." Poor ladies! If they only knew what the dress revolution has done since the days of crinolines they would very probably turn in their graves.

Fox Films have provided us with many a film of educational value. Their Magic Carpet series for instance, is beneficial to old and young alike and they are always an attraction, but "Filming the Fashions" is, to put it mildly, a sensational revelation in more senses than one. Visit the King's and see for yourself this intriguing picture and when it is remembered that the price of admission includes the privilege of viewing "Walls of Gold" little more need be said.

MARLENE DIETRICH

In A New Role

A new Marlene Dietrich, different than her millions of screen admirers have ever glimpsed in her previous pictures will be seen in "The Song of Songs," her new Paramount picture, coming to the King's Theatre on Sunday.

Miss Dietrich, who hitherto has appeared as a sophisticated, worldly woman, appears in her new production as an innocent young country girl of rare beauty, who goes to Berlin, and, jilted by a handsome young sculptor, runs the gamut of tragic experience. She marries a rich and elderly Baron, whom she does not love, and, following their divorce, she becomes bitter and disillusioned, and a notorious woman in the gay German city's night life.

"The Song of Songs," adapted from the literary classic of Hermann Sudermann, was directed by Rouben Mamoulian. This is the first Dietrich film which has not been directed by her dis-covers, Josef von Sternberg. An outstanding cast of actors appears in support of the star who recently has commanded the attention of the world as the sponsor of the trousers for women style-vogue.

Brian Aherne, referred to by drama critics as the most romantic actor of the New York stage, following his work as Katherine Cornell's leading man in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street,"

"WALLS OF GOLD"

Sally Eilers At Her Best

"Walls of Gold," which might be described as the greatest picture of a great actress, Sally Eilers, comes to the King's Theatre on Thursday and is to have a run of three days. Those privileged to see the preview speak of Sally's latest effort as her greatest, and when we recall such films as "Bad Girl," "Hold Me Tight" and "State Fair," we begin to prepare for something really good. If all the things that are said about this film are true, and we have no reason to think otherwise.

As in "State Fair," Miss Eilers has Norman Foster playing opposite her. It would not be necessary to sing the praises of this team for they are too well-known to film fans to need anything like that. Suffice it to say that in "Walls of Gold" they have surpassed all previous efforts, so be sure to visit the King's during the run of this super-production. Kenneth MacKenna directed the film, and the fact that even so particular a director had little or no adverse comment to make about the whole reel, is guarantee enough of its standard.

For Ladies Only

Sally Eilers, as the smart Jeanie Sattrelee of "Walls of Gold," wears a smart coiffure that any woman might be glad to copy. Don't forget, then, to go to the King's if you want to look your smartest at the next dance.

The season for Mrs. is now upon us. In the picture, Miss Eilers is shown being fitted with magnificent furs. The coat she finally takes makes an issue which is never forgotten through the picture.

Sally Eilers reveals the latest in feminine attire in her role in the new Fox photoplay, "Walls of Gold," the screen adaptation of the novel by Kathleen Norris. Sometime or other early in her career, every screen actress must declare her views on matrimony. Rochelle Hudson, the little blue-eyed Oklahoma brunette who has a featured part in "Walls of Gold," gets it all off her chest as follows:—

It doesn't matter to me whether he's rich, or poor, a paperhanger or a banker, if I love him and he loves me."

Rosita Moreno, Mexican-born star of Spanish pictures, presents in "Walls of Gold" one of the dances which have placed her among the first ten dancers of the United States.

"LOVE LIES"

Excellent Comedy At The Queen's

"Love Lies," now showing at the Queen's Theatre is another proof of the rapid stride that British Films have made. About a year ago films produced in England that had been billed "Funny" proved to be more and less of a mediocre nature, but the fact that they are now offering a serious challenge to Hollywood is evident by "Love Lies" which is

HER BODYGUARD

An Excellent Film

Movie-goers may be amused by the story and situation portrayed in "Her Bodyguard," the Edmund Lowe-Wynne Gibson comedy which opened yesterday at the Alhambra Theatre, but movie-players aren't.

"Her Bodyguard" is a story of a star and her professional protector, and it has a lot of humorous angles. But the movie colony, though it laughed at the picture, nevertheless keeps its tongue in its cheek. The body-guard business is a serious one in the film capital.

B.P. Schulberg, producer of "Her Bodyguard," explains why. "There are more than 160 people in Hollywood known to earn their living guarding stars," he points out. "In many cases they double as personal servants or chauffeurs. Most of them are former soldiers or policemen."

"Threats of kidnapping and the recent series of hold ups in Hollywood are directly responsible for the situation. Mary Pickford has maintained a staff of bodyguards ever since she was threatened with kidnapping a few years ago. Marlene Dietrich has a staff too. Among others under constant guard are Harold Lloyd, George Raft, Claudette Colbert, Sylvia Sydney, Miriam Hopkins and Jack Oakie."

For the sake of Hollywood's feelings, "Her Bodyguard" is set in New York and Wynne Gibson plays the role of a stage, not a screen star. Edmund Lowe is assigned to protect her—not only from the underworld, but from men in general, or it is a sugar daddy who tries to seduce her. The picture develops along more amusing lines at the time and the audience discovers that they are

V.R.C. Account Dispute

AMERICAN CHARGED WITH FALSE PRETENCES

A serious charge of obtaining $40 from Messrs. Lane, Crawford, Ltd. by false pretences was preferred against an American, William Arthur Tanner, jun. of Chicago before Mr. S. F. Balfour at Central Magistrate yesterday.

The defendant was alleged to have obtained the money by pretending that he was authorised to collect it on behalf of the Victoria Recreation Club.

According to Detective-Sergeant C. Mottram who prosecuted, the defendant was alleged to have negotiated advertising contracts for the V.R.C. when he was a visiting member. The bill amounted to $40. Lane, Crawford's having paid this sum over to Tanner. Later the Club rendered another account and correspondence revealed that they had not received the money.

Mr. T. M. L. Redmond, accountant of Messrs. Lane, Crawford, Ltd., stated that on November 25, Tanner came to the office to collect $40 for advertising in a programme. He was shown up to the office by an assistant in the sports department. The bill was already stamped and initialled by the defendant. Witness handed the money to his clerk who paid it over to Tanner. Later a duplicate of the bill was received and it subsequently came to witness's knowledge through a communication that all bills were to be paid by cheque direct to the Hon. Treasurer of the V.R.C.

In reply to Sergt. Mottram, Mr. Redmond said there had been considerable correspondence with the V.R.C. over this matter. Mr. Dixon, Hon. Secretary of the Club, had seen the complainant personally and told him that Tanner was not authorised to collect money.

Witness recalled a conversation when Tanner went to see Mr. Brown, the Manager, that he (Tanner) was going to see Mr. Dixon and put matters right.

Secretary's Evidence

Mr. P. A. Dixon, Hon. Secretary of the V.R.C. giving evidence, said he knew the defendant. He was a visiting member, but as he had not paid his subscriptions he did not even enjoy the privileges of a visiting member. Tanner had never been a member of the committee, and was never authorised to collect bills. Lane, Crawford's, as far as the witness was concerned, had not paid the bill.

Cross-examined by Tanner, Mr. Dixon said he definitely told the defendant not to have anything to do with the bills in connection with the programme for the visit of the Shanghai Y.M.C.A. swimming team.

In answer to his Worship, Mr. Dixon said the bill was sent to Lane, Crawford's. How it got into the defendant's hands he did not know.

The Defence

Tanner then entered the witness box. He stated his profession was writing. On September 27 or 28, he made an agreement with the V.R.C. that he was to have full advertising rights and to get the proceeds of the sale of programmes. He set about getting the advertisements which amounted to $180. Mr. Dixon then cut the price down to half.

Defendant continued: I felt I had lost eighty dollars on the deal. When I was not paid, I let it go at that and I resigned. Sometime later, I was advised that Lane, Crawford's had not paid their account and would not pay it until I had seen Mr. Ainslie. I was told this by Mr. Butt and Mr. MacNider, of the sports department. On a later day, Mr. Butt asked me for the love of Mike to see Mr. Ainslie. Mr. Butt gave me the bill. I kept it in my pocket for a few days. Mr. Butt again spoke to me and Mr. MacNider asked me to do something about it. Mr. Ainslie felt that Lane, Crawford's owed $20 rather than $40. I went to see Mr. MacNider and asked him if he remembered the circumstances and called over Mr. Ainslie who O.K'd the bill and I got the money. I did not hand the money over to the V.R.C. because I felt, as they kept me waiting, they could wait also. The initials on the bill are my own and there was no intent to defraud Lane, Crawford's.

Case Remanded

Cross-examined by Sergeant Mottram, Tanner replied: I did not report to the V.R.C. that I had collected the money, nor did they report that they had collected money of mine.

Mr. W. L. Butt, of Savarin House, Kowloon, called as a witness for the defence, stated he worked for Lane, Crawford's for seventeen months up to December 1 last. He was not sure whether Mr. Dixon told him (witness) or the defendant that the Hong Kong Brewery and Lane, Crawford's had paid their bills for advertising. saw the V.R.C. had not paid Tanner any money. He was sure he gave the bill to Tanner a few days after it was given to him (witness) by Mr. Ainslie.

After Mr. Butt had given evidence, defendant expressed a wish to call another witness.

Mr. E. W. Friman, of the K.D. Petroleum Company of China was then called and after he had given testimony, his Worship remarked that he would like to have the evidence of Mr. Ainslie.

The case was accordingly remanded till this morning, defendant being allowed bail of $100.

DEVELOPMENTS IN PHOTOGRAPHY

Interesting Address
Before Rotary Club

Members of the Shanghai Rotary Club who attended the weekly reunion tiffin meeting held in the Metropole Hotel last week were entertained by Mr. Robert E. O'Boyer, of the Eastman Kodak Company, who gave a delightful talk upon "Recent Developments in Photography."

Introduced by Mr. Hugo Sander, the President of the Rotary Club, Mr. O'Boyer explained to the members the reason why it was possible to photograph things which could not be seen by the naked eye. "You are familiar," said the speaker, "with the spectrum seen when a beam of light falls upon a prism and is split into its component parts in the order of their wavelengths, also observed in the phenomenon of the rainbow. Some of you are also familiar with the invisible portion of it known as the Ultra Violet Region because of the use of ultra violet rays in the maintenance of health and in the treatment of bodily ailments. In the early days of photography, negative materials were sensitive to ultra violet and to part of the visible spectrum, namely violet and blue rays. Later it was found that by adding certain dyes it was possible to carry the sensitivity of plates and films through green and yellow and ending in the orange portion of the spectrum. These materials were known as Orthochromatic or corrected for colour, because at that time it was supposed that this was all the colour correction that could be expected."

A Boon To Navigation

"Further experimentation brought forth still other dyes which when added carried the sensitivity of plates and films completely over the visible spectrum. These materials are known as Panchromatic, being sensitive to all colours of light. More recent developments in the making of negative emulsions resulted in the sensitivity of the materials being carried far beyond the visible spectrum at the red end and so now we have the infra-red plate. These 'unseen' infra-red rays are not scattered by fog and mist as are blue rays so when all blue rays are filtered out photographs of distant objects blotted out from sight by haze show up clearly in the picture. With cameras using infra-red plates and filters, mountains lost in haze have been photographed from hundreds of miles away, group pictures of people have been taken in pitch black rooms and mariners can safely photograph their way through otherwise un navigable fog. The captain of the s.s. 'Manhattan' has said that this is the greatest boon to navigation since radio."

Remarkable Results

"Infra-red photography is valuable for military purposes in detecting camouflage and filming enemy territory when the visibility would otherwise render photography work impossible and also over the protective cover of haze. Inasmuch as infra-red rays are outside the visible spectrum it is possible to exclude by means of suitable filters all visible light from a room, yet flood the room with these infra-red rays so that photographs may be made in what appears to be total darkness. Such a photograph was taken in our laboratories some time ago of a large assembly of people and so sensitive was the photographic material that it required an exposure of only one second."

The speaker then dealt with the invisible rays beyond the other end of the spectrum known as 'ultra violet,' mentioning their uses and hazards and interest of which captivated all who had the pleasure of listening to it. Several photographs were exhibited to illustrate and point out the several features mentioned by Mr. O'Boyer.

INDIAN MUSLIM SOCIETY

Annual Report Issued

The Indian Muslim Society which will hold their annual meeting at the Mosque, 30 Shelley Street on Sunday, March 4 at 2 p.m., has issued the following report for the past year:—

The membership at the beginning of the year was 1,094 and stood at 1,114 at the end of the year, showing an increase of 20 members over that of last year's. Subscriptions during the year amounted to $1,711.54. The balance brought forward from 1932 was $3,138.92. Expenditure during the year amounted to $1,195.12 balance forward to 1934 accounts comes to $3,655.34 which is more than that of the previous year by $516.42. The principal items in the year's expenditure were the salaries for the Maulvi and the Muezzin and the wages for the Mosque and cemetery coolies. A further sum of $400 was paid for general repairs to the cemetery, and a sum of $129 went towards the telephone rent.

The general committee engaged themselves in at least one outstanding activity during the year. This was in connection with the erection of a boundary wall and a mosque at the Macao cemetery. This scheme was sponsored by the late Khan Sahib Nawab Khan and Seth Rahmatullah Ellag about four years ago when they collected a sum of about $6,000 for the scheme. Owing to some unfortunate misunderstanding among the Muslim community at Macao the scheme was left in abeyance till the general committee again took up the matter in March and succeeded in bringing the scheme to a head, with the result that work has already started at the cemetery and will be completed within three months.

The general committee also contemplate opening a night school for the benefit of those members of the society who desire to learn religious and secular knowledge.

Kowloon Cemetery.

It will not be out of place to mention here the connection of the general committee indirectly with the erection of a Cemetery at Kowloon. This was formerly a military cemetery, but owing to certain difficulties the military could not adequately look after it, and a working committee of civil and military members was formed

"Road Accidents—Some Psychological Factors"

INTERESTING LECTURE BY PROFESSOR
L. FORSTER

Rights Of Pedestrians And Drivers

An interesting lecture on "Road Accidents—Some Psychological Factors" was delivered by Professor L. Forster, President of the Education Society at the Union Assembly Hall, University, Prof. Forster said:

In Great Britain last year over 4,000 persons were killed on the roads by motor cars, and in America 32,500 persons suffered the same fate, and so it is literally true to say that while the British jehu has slain his thousands his American brother has slain his tens of thousands. So numerous have such deaths become in America that now the motor car shares with tuberculosis the discredit of being one of the ten major causes of death. How striking is the contrast with former times when the streets were places where citizens met to exchange goods as well as gossip. It was here that children played while their parents dabbled and surveyed the wares in the shops or sat down and viewed the passing scene. Here were gaiety and life, colour and movement, variety and change from the routine of the home and here was the latest news to be gleaned with which to brighten the conversation over the dinner table. The Rows at Chester, the Pantiles in Tunbridge Wells, Bond St. and The Fleet were such places. The Boulevards or the Continent with their cafes abutting on the edge of the roadway also testify to the character of the street life of past centuries. Mend your ways or prepare your ways was an injunction which was issued only when a really important personage was about to visit a town. At other times their state did not matter very much for they were not used for swift traffic.

All this is now changed, the old easy going slow movement of the streets has been transformed. Not three but thirty miles an hour is the new tempo of life and so the streets have ceased to be places in which people saunter, for even when the pedestrian is safely on the pavement, he feels he must not loiter, so strong is the influence of the rapidly moving traffic about him. The present situation however is not without its parallel in past years. At the recent meeting of the British Association held in Leicester, Sir Josiah Stamp quoted a long passage from a book published in the 18th Century in which the writer denounced in very violent language the insolence and wickedness of those in charge of horse-drawn vehicles who not only made the streets most dangerous by day but still more perilous and hideous by night because of their reckless driving. Accidents he said were occurring which ought certainly to be avoided, but the drivers were not controlled and disciplined while using the road. Nor were they severely punished as they ought to be by the magistrates when they were found guilty of these outrages. The result of all this was, he continued, that men, women and children were no longer able to use the streets and enjoy the amenities of life for they were no longer safe there. In other words, that is by the substitution of "motor car" for "horse-drawn vehicle" we have here an indictment the severity of which would do credit to those who are in charge of the pedestrian's cause to-day.

All this merely proves that we are by nature conservative in our ways and that we find it difficult to adjust our behaviour to any new invention which demands that we must alter it. The horse, however, was finally, we presume, incorporated into the social scheme, but when the railway came along it was ordered to be confined to its own private road carefully railed off, provided with signals and level crossings at which persons were specially detailed to operate the gates. When train cars brought new ideas of speed into the city, they had to be provided with emergency brakes and cow catchers, and they were forbidden to move on their own track at more than 15 miles per hour. So far the pedestrian had been able to assert his right to the use of the road.

With the introduction of the light moving motor car which by its graceful appearance, silent motion and mystical power has added, in some ways, a new beauty to street life, the pedestrian's domination of the road disappeared. He yielded to the seductive charms of the newcomer, who at first promised not to be too fast but somehow or other as she could not go against her own nature, she reached higher and higher levels of speed and at the same time dazzled the pedestrian into acquiescence in her mad career.

Now the latter is recovering from his fascination and is thinking one more of his rights, and is wondering how it was that his wise and great grandfather dealt so effectively with the railway while he deals so ineffectively with the motor car, but when the Railways were introduced, states and dignified old men had political authority and refused to allow their habits of life to be disturbed. That is why the railways were hedged in by every manner of restriction and that is why some railways are at such inconvenient distance from certain towns. In one case a land owner refused to permit the view from his house to be changed and would only tolerate the presence of the line if it burrowed underground for half a mile, though there was no engineering need for such construction.

Lord Buckmaster said in the House of Commons recently that in England alone there had been two million accidents on the road since the war, and in 1932 there had been 338,000 traffic offences committed in the country. In London in 1932 231 children were killed by motor cars or lorries, while 10,079 were injured. Had these all occurred in one place at the same time, the country would have been shocked in the same way as the world was shocked when the French Railway disaster occurred at Langy where over two hundred people were killed. The motorist, however, does not act in such a spectacular way; he wages a sort of guerrilla warfare whereby he achieves very impressive results when we consider his activities over the whole year.

On the pedestrian's side there are two contributory factors which cause these accidents—his inability to adjust or adapt himself to the requirements of the new conditions on the roads and also the belief that while there he has the chief claim to consideration. He believes that as a road user he has privileges but no duties.

The statistics recently published in England covering a period of six months in 1932 give the following facts:—

491 children under ten were killed and formed 31 per cent of the total, 153 persons were killed whose ages lay between 10 and 31, 172 who were between 31 and 51, while 765 of those who were killed were over 51 and formed 48.4 per cent of the whole.

The Dangerous Ages.

The dangerous ages therefore are those before the age of ten and after the age of fifty. These statistics are interesting and significant for they reveal the fact that those who have not yet learned to adjust themselves because of their tender age to the needs of the traffic, and those who cannot do so because of their advanced age, form between them 80 per cent of the total. Those who are beyond the age of fifty grew up at a time when horses were the fastest moving objects on the highway. It was to that situation they learned to adapt their movements, so that when they come to a new situation which requires a more rapid coordination of eye, ear, and limb, they find it difficult to eliminate the old habit of leisurely response and substitute the quicker movement. The slower reaction is of course also due to falling physical powers and less rapid perception but the older habits acquired earlier tend to persist, and so retard movements that would otherwise be effective. By the age of twenty five it is said that we begin to settle down to a life of routine and take on the mental attitude which clings to us afterwards. Those who are now fifty years of age possess a set of habits which handicap them in their efforts to cope with a road situation in which the movement is ten times faster than that to which they became adjusted. This persistence of acquired habits in circumstances which demand something different is clearly marked when the English pedestrian crosses to the Continent and finds himself confronted with a rules that contradict those he has learned. However intelligent he may be, he finds it extremely difficult to learn the new pattern and act according to it for the old ideas persist and he feels it a grievance that he should be called upon to conform to some thing which at first sight seemed to be chaotic.

Traffic in England

The English system of traffic has this advantage—when a person comes from a side street it is established that all things being equal he will glance to the right first, and as this is the direction from which English traffic comes the motorist and the pedestrian will meet it at once face to face. In the last returns published in England, 18 pedestrians were killed who were going the same way as the traffic while only 6 were killed who were going in the opposite direction. The tendency to glance to the right has value in crossing the stream of traffic in England for the pedestrian at least till he gets to the middle of the road, by which time he is probably more alert than he was before he started and therefore in a better position to take care of himself.

Another factor which operates adversely in road traffic is the ineradicable belief that the pedestrian has the prior claim to the use of the road, and that the motorist can only use it if he does not wish to do so. This attitude is met with in England where pedestrians frequently assert this claim in a defiant manner as though daring the motorist to approach and harm them. There was painted some years ago a famous picture which is now used by one of the great advertising firms, that depicts a beautiful little girl aged about four crossing the road at Piccadilly Circus, while the policeman holds up his hand and suspends the busy traffic until the little girl and nurse are safely over. Here we see the majesty of the law exerted on behalf of her majesty the child and into that picture we project ourselves and imagine that on our behalf also the law can be invoked to call a halt to the hundreds of vehicles that are in motion in order that we individually might get across the highway. Just as in the picture all the drivers and chauffeurs are much more concerned about the child getting over safely than they are about getting along on their journey, so we believe they ought still more to be concerned with our safety, even if the policeman is not there. Another picture might be drawn showing the anger and impatience of the drivers as being kept back by the insignificant and unimportant little person called a pedestrian whose adventure upon the roadway should be regarded as something to be discouraged not only because he is risking his own life but because he is doing something much more serious namely preventing people in motor cars and buses from getting along on their journey.

The law does not relieve the pedestrian of his responsibilities except in certain countries where he is allowed to wear a red band round his arm if he is deaf and in certain street areas in Paris where the pedestrian has the prior claim over the motorist; who, however, is not excluded.

Linked up with this claim of English belief in the pedestrian's prior right to the road, is the sturdy individualism of the Englishman which is always strongest when his rights are challenged or threatened. Those who are less assertive of their privileges and are more docile and ready to conform to new demands made upon them are again is borne out by statistics collected by Gemelli and Pavesi who have made a careful study of motor accidents and their causes in Europe. The number of motor accidents in London, they assert, due to the pedestrian's indifference to the regulations governing the use of the road is 50 per cent of the whole, whereas in Berlin only 20 per cent, and in New York 30 per cent of the accidents are attributed to the fault of the pedestrian from which we can conclude that the English person is highly individualised and conservative. The Berliner amenable to rules and regulations and the New York citizen more alert and quick to adjust himself to the demands made upon him.

Cause of Accidents

The most fertile cause of accidents is probably the practice of crossing the road diagonally instead of at right angles. If we assume that every pedestrian is anxious to economise his physical effort by taking the shortest distance between two points just as the motorist's aim is to economise in time by proceeding at the highest possible speed compatible with his own security, then we shall find that every individual is a potential jay walker. Everyone is as lazy as he dare be and will

EMP. OF BRITAIN ARRIVING

Largest Ship East of Suez to Pay Visit

Hong Kong is once again to receive the largest globe-trotter, on March 17, when the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain arrives on her second world-cruise. By the time she arrives back at Cherbourg—towards the end of May—she will have called at no less than 33 ports during her four months voyage around the world, and her 450 passengers will have seen more of the countries and peoples of the world than most people can expect to see in a lifetime.

As last year, she is carrying a number of prominent persons on the cruise. These include Brigadier General Sir Loftus Bates; Sir M. M. Burton, chairman of Montague Burton, Ltd., Leeds, and Lady Burton; Prince de Caraman Chima, late of the Scots Guards, and Princess de Caraman Chima; the Earl of Lauderdale, Representative Peer for Scotland since 1931, and his son, Viscount Maitland; the Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster General of Canada since 1930, and Mme. Sauve; Lady Eckstein; Prince Nicholas and Princess Engalteoff; and Baroness Stefanie Neuman.

The Ship

The launching of the Empress of Britain on June 11, 1930, by the Prince of Wales at Glasgow, was one of the greatest events in the history of the Canadian Pacific. This fine vessel, which was built by John Brown & Co., Ltd., is the largest steamship to ply between any two ports of the British Empire.

Her main dimensions are:—Length overall, 758 ft.; breadth moulded, 97½ ft.; depth to B Deck, 80 ft. 9 ins.; tonnage, 42,500 tons gross and 33,750 displacement.

She is fitted with quadruple screws, and the propelling machinery consists of four sets of single-reduction geared turbines, designed to give a total nominal output of 64,000 shaft horse-power. The boiler installation consists of nine high-pressure oil-fired, water-tube boilers.

For cruising in the tropics, she is the most luxuriously comfortable ship yet designed. The decoration is on an unusually lavish and magnificent scale, and the liner is equipped with two swimming baths (one in the lower part of the ship), gymnasiums, special rooms for children, and, in fact, every convenience and luxury that the skill and ingenuity of the ship-designer can provide.

The Knickerbocker Bar

Her bar, rejoicing under the title of the Knickerbocker Bar, is one of the few bars known and talked about the world over. Its most interesting feature is the mural decorations, which, drawn by that gifted artist, Heath Robinson, depict, amongst other things, the manufacture of the cocktail from cherry to finished product.

Features of the Empress of Britain which strike the eye include her straight stem raking well forward; the cruiser stern; the three funnels of pear-shaped section, down which two double-decker buses could drive side by side; the two masts, which rise 208 ft. above the load water-line. She has been in commission ever since May, 1931, and an estimate of her gigantic size may be formed from the fact that if she were any larger it would be impossible for her to pass through the Suez Canal.

Her Voyage

Starting out from New York on January 4, she called at Madeira, Gibraltar, Algiers, Monaco, Naples, Athens, Haifa, Port Said, Bombay, Colombo, Penang, Singapore, and Bangkok (Paknam), Batavia (Tandjong Priok), Semarang, Padang, Bay (Ball), Zamboanga, Manila, prior to coming here. She will then proceed to Shanghai and is due at Woosung on March 23.

She sails at midnight the same day for Chinwangtao, calling thereafter at Beppu, Kobe, Yokohama, Honolulu, Hilo, San Francisco, Los Angeles (San Pedro), Balboa, Cebu, and Havana, arriving at New York on May 14, and Cherbourg and Southampton, on May 21.

not walk along two sides of a right-angled triangle if he can proceed along the hypotenuse. The law does not prevent this and the street is not hedged in in such a way as to prevent it either, and so long as these two conditions hold, men will take the risk as they have taken it before and always attempt to make such a crossing. Such a saving of time and effort will appeal very strongly to a tired workman at the end of a weary day, to anyone carrying a heavy load, and to everyone on a hot day.

KACHEK NOTES

Due to failure of rice crops last year much rice is being imported into the Kachek region. Many people say, "We have never had to buy rice in our lives until this year." People in Holhow and Klungchow depend upon sea or imported rice quite generally but people here complain about the taste of the new varieties. The rice comes from Siam, Annam or the mainland of China. For transportation down country it is put in gunny sacks or matting bags and loaded on cars. A Chevrolet seen recently at the ferry had rice bags securely tied on engine, running boards, fenders, trunk rack, on the rear seat, the cushion of which was tied up top, and between the seats. The chauffeur said he had on 3,200 catties—a fair load for a touring car. As long as roads are good such loads can be carried, but the wonder is that the cars stand up under the treatment.

During the Chinese twelfth month there was some robbing of cars. The military took prompt steps to suppress it, patrolling guards along the main roads. Suspects were rounded up and imprisoned and we hear that in some cases torture was resorted to in order to secure confessions. Nine men have been shot outside Kachek market the past few days for complicity in such robberies and for communist tendencies. Such summary execution of justice—if justice it be—should be a deterrent to those contemplating such hold-ups.

Just before the New Year military were being moved about the country. One morning a party of us took passage on a native car for Holhow. As the car came towards the east gate of Klungchow City soldiers were seen at the gate with baggage and were also seen to stop a car ahead of us. It was too late for our chauffeur to do any thing, but a new Chevrolet behind us turned around in a great hurry and hustled back towards the ferry, several soldiers vainly chasing it. As we waited our turn to see what disposition would be made of us, and while the passengers in the car ahead were being unloaded bag and baggage, a chauffeur with whom I had been talking as our cars were at the ferry walked nonchalantly past, carrying a small bag, and looking as if he had never seen a car. His passengers were probably proceeding towards the port in rickshaws or on foot, his car hidden in some village several miles away, and he going to Holhow to drum up passengers and freight for the return trip, to be loaded when it was safe. The officer in charge of catching cars saw us, saluted, put four soldiers on the running boards to escort the car back when we were all unloaded—and let us go on to our destination. The car men hate to carry soldiers as they have to go out of the way places, and are only paid half fare.

During the New Year season hunting parties were a favourite form of diversion. Groups of men and boys, with dogs, guns, wooden spears, short knives and nets went out for what game they could secure. Antelope, wild boar, porcupine, civet cats, the so-called foxes, and various birds are the usual loot. Wild boar are a menace to the crops and in certain districts where they are too prevalent the farmers invite hunting parties in to help get rid of the animals.

Schools are re-opening after the New Year vacation. Theoretically the government schools and the registered private schools were supposed to be in session all during the holiday. Practically, the few pupils who had registered for the new term after the mid-semester vacation brought requests for leave of absence from their parents, which the school authorities were glad to grant, and with no pupils on hand teachers could enjoy the holiday too. It seems a pity that the government should try to do away with China's one real universal holiday period, and its attempts are not likely to succeed very soon.

The members of the Hainan Mission of the American Presbyterian Church gathered in Nodda February 12th to 15th for their third annual devotional conference. The Rev. Frank Short of the London Mission, Hong Kong, was the speaker, and Mrs. Short added much to the pleasure of the meetings with her music. Mr. Short took as his general topic "The Kenosis of Christ" and gave a number of very stimulating and thought-provoking addresses, which were much appreciated. Mr. and Mrs. Short arrived in Holhow February 10th, and Mr. Short very kindly consented to have an English service for the foreign community in Holhow the 11th. On the 18th he preached in the Kachek church. He and Mrs. Short were able to see the four stations of the mission, and to get a fairly general idea of the country in the northern part of the island.

THE PIRACY PROBLEM

China is the only country in the world to-day off whose coasts piracy on the high seas is still a not infrequent occurrence. But piratical outrages on sea-going steamers, have not been so numerous during the past couple of years as they used to be, though the piracy of junks and other small craft at harbour and river entrances is still a common occurrence.

The pirates who prey upon coastal shipping invariably get on board in the guise of passengers at one of the regular ports of call.
There is reason to believe that each piracy is preceded by careful planning on the part of the gang, whose agents make several trips on the vessel with a view to studying its cargo, passenger and crew accommodation and the habits and routine of the staff. Walchow, in Kwangtung, is the centre from which most of the pirate gangs come, and Blas Bay or Honghai Bay are their usual rendezvous, to which captured steamers are taken. In some cases complicity on the part of the members of the crew has been suspected. The gang usually numbers from a dozen to twenty-five men, and they board the vessel at some previously arranged port, usually Shanghai, Canton, Hong Kong or Swatow, though they sometimes go as far afield as Singapore or Indo-China. The latest prevailing until recently on coastal steamers, where the passenger accommodation was farmed out to the com-pradors, who only collected fares at the port of disembarkation, played into the hands of the pirates but foreign shipping companies in Shanghai now exercise greater care, usually requiring some form of guarantee before a native passenger is allowed on board. Foreign ships operating in South China waters, where the piracy menace is most acute, are usually equipped with steel grilles, which isolate the native passenger accommodation from the portions of the vessel earmarked for foreign passengers, the ship's officers, and navigation, and carry armed guards.

Without these precautions a band of armed desperadoes, simultaneously attacking the bridge, engine-room and officers' and passengers' quarters, seldom meets with effective resistance. Attempts upon ships which carry armed guards and equipped with grilles, are infrequent. The last of such cases was the attempt to capture the Douglas vessel Halchong, in December, 1929. Resistance was offered by the Indian guards and the ship's officers, several of whom were killed or wounded, and the pirates, baulked of their prey then set fire to the ship. Wireless appeals for assistance brought a British Destroyer to the spot within a few hours; the passengers were taken off, and the fire was eventually extinguished, most of the pirates, who had not been burnt to death or jumped overboard, being arrested and taken to Hong Kong for trial. The gal-lantary of two of the officers was suitably rewarded by the King.

Equally heroic was the conduct of the officers of the "Sunning," in November, 1926. They recaptured the bridge after the vessel had been pirated, held it against all the assaults of the pirates, for several hours, and continued to resist even after the ship had been set on fire. The timely arrival of H.M.S. Bluebell saved the situation. Following upon this piracy the then Governor of Hong Kong appointed a special Commission to investigate and report.
Among its recommendations were:
more effective searching of the coastal ports; pressure upon the Chinese authorities to deal with the menace ashore; independent action against pirate strongholds by the British Navy, systematic patrolling of Blas Bay and other known rendezvous; improvement of the grille system, the installation of wireless telegraphy on all sea-going vessels; and systematic investigation and collection of piracy data by a special board, which should meet at quarterly intervals. Since then piracy has become less frequent on coastal shipping using Hong Kong as a terminus. And on several occasions timely warnings of the departure of suspected pirates from Hong Kong and other ports have enabled the Shanghai Police to make rigorous searches, and in some instances, effect arrests.

The fact remains, however, that the true remedy for piracy is to be found ashore. "Given the will," said the Sunning report, "it would be a simple matter for any Chinese authority to comb out such a notorious nest as Blas Bay, and to keep it under control; but until the Chinese can be induced to take action themselves, or to allow action to be taken in the common interest, the risk of piracy in Chinese waters will remain." Since that was written the British Navy has made raids upon and systematically patrolled Blas Bay, and the Chinese authorities have established military posts in the vicinity. This, however, did not prevent the Heikong being captured in that vicinity as recently as October, 1932, taken to the adjacent Hong-

HARMONY
PREVAILS
Between Canton And Nanking

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, February 28.
General Chiang Ting Wen, officer commanding Nanking troops in Fukien, who was responsible for defeating the 19th Route Army last month, arrived here yesterday afternoon by a passenger plane of the China National Aviation Corporation from Amoy.

Wearing a soft hat and a black cape, General Chiang Ting Wen alighted from the Sikorsky amphibian plane at the Socony installation and stepped into a waiting motor boat which was specially despatched by the military authorities here to convey the Nanking general to the city. After landing General Chiang immediately proceeded to the mansion of General Chen Tsi Tong at Model Village, Tungshan.

General Chen, who received word of General Chiang's arrival early in the morning, invited the Nanking officer to dinner at the Meditative Retreat Club inside the Tungshan Railway Compound at which Messrs. Chow Lu, Tong Tse Yu and Liu Chi Wen, members of the South-west Political Council, were also present.

It was learned that General
Chiang Ting Wen was sent to Canton by instructions of General Chiang Kai-shek, Chairman of the Nanking Military Commission, to consult General Chan Tsi Tong with regard to suppression of Communists in Kiangsi and South-western Fukien and other important political matters concerning the relations between Canton and Nanking.

The discussions continued today, it is reported, and General Chen Tsi Tong is said to have assured General Chiang that the Kwangtung troops will support the Nanking military authorities in the anti-Communist campaign.
Harmony appears to prevail between the Canton and Nanking military leaders, and General Chiang Ting Wen is the first Nanking officer to visit Canton for the first time in three years.

Mlle. Hiltz Overdue

Shanghai, February 28.
Mlle. Maryse Hiltz is several hours overdue. Darkness has now fallen. Serious anxiety is felt for her fate.

The weather conditions midway are reported to be bad.—Reuter.

The aviatrix left Hong Kong at a non-stop flight and expected to arrive in Shanghai at about 2.30 p.m.

CAPTAIN EDEN'S TOUR

London, February 27.
The Lord Privy Seal, Captain
Anthony Eden, was to-day the luncheon guest, in Rome, of Marques Di Soragna, the Italian delegate to the Disarmament Conference and to-night, he dined at the French Embassy.

He is leaving Rome for Paris tomorrow afternoon.—British Wire-hai Bay, and there looted. The next piracy of a British vessel was in a way more sensational as it occurred off Newchwang, on the Manchurian coast. Four officers were kidnapped, and only released after a detention of several months.

Last month, however, the China
Merchants' vessel Poo An, bound from Shanghai to Tsingtau, was pirated by a gang that had booked as passengers. She was taken south but not to Blas or Honghai Bay, the rendezvous on this occasion being Choan Bay, on the Fukien-Kwangtung border. In addition to a quantity of booty, this gang, whose technique suggests that it belonged to the Walchow organisation, carried off nine Chinese passengers, to hold them to ransom. In this particular instance the fact that Fukien was in revolt against the Central Government, whose troops were actually engaging the rebels at the time, may be regarded as a mitigating circumstance. But much remains to be done before the China coast can be cleared of the pirate pest, and it is to be hoped Kwangtung Province, with its large and well-equipped Army, will continue to assist in preventing Blas Bay and Honghai Bay being used as pirate strongholds.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Prague, February 27.
That bitterness is aroused by any interference with the country's currency where depreciation has occurred, is shown by the plain speaking that took place at the general meeting of the Czechoslovakian National Bank on Tuesday, when the new governor (the former Finance Minister) Dr. English addressed shareholders for the first time.

English is one of those who is chiefly instrumental in bringing about the recent devaluation of the Czechian crown. Premier Malypeter and Finance Minister
Tratel were present.

As soon as English began his speech a perfect storm of protest broke out from the ex-Finance Minister, Professor Horack, leading the opposition, attacked English shouting "I have no faith in theoretical currency experiments. The devaluation is the first step to new inflation. This is a case where silence would be cowardice." Voluferous applause followed.

The immediate resignation of the Government and new elections were demanded. Malypeter left the assembly whereupon it broke out in disorder.—Transocean Kuo

Brussels, Feb. 28.
The newly crowned King of the Belgians, Leopold III, was called upon to face heavy responsibilities at the very outset of his reign owing to the outbreak of a General Strike in the textile industry with almost a hundred per cent participation.

In Verviers—heart of the Belgian textile industry—every factory without exception is deserted by employees whose total number is estimated at fifteen thousand.
The West Flanders district is likewise heavily affected with half the factories closing down in course of the day.

Woolcarders Union voted a sympathy walk-out and carried out their action with complete success.
Heavy police detachments have been able so far to prevent serious clashes between the pickets and scattered strike breakers.

Vienna, February 27.
Answering questions put by Press representatives on Tuesday, Prince Starhemberg said that the Hel-matenschutz advocated the immediate revocation of the law proscribing the Hapsburgs but that the question of restitution of the Hapsburg Monarchy in Austria could not be answered one way or another at present.

Austria cannot afford the luxury of re-opening the question especially as the re-establishment of a Monarchy is not purely an Austrian affair but powerfully effects the destinies of neighbouring countries.
Nor can there be any question of agency since the Austrian Constitution makes no provision for such a step.

Starhemberg said that the Hel-matenschutz always knew that the Austro-Bolsheviks are heavily armed and that a violent conflict was inevitable. Now the extreme elements were eradicated, the chief task was to win the loyalty of their harassed countrymen.

Regarding relationship with National Socialists, the Helmatenschutz asserted fidelity to German Nationalism and the Pan-German idea but believed that this can best be served by the maintenance of independence of Austria.
"We would welcome the return of normal friendly relations with Germany but do not believe this ought to be bought at the price of subjecting the development of Austria under the pole domination of National Socialism."

Berlin, Feb. 27.
Dimitroff, Popoff, and Taneff three Bulgarian Communists tried at the Supreme Court at Leipzig last year for complicity in the Reichstag incendiary case and acquitted by the Court for want of sufficient evidence to justify a conviction, were released from custody by the German secret Police and simultaneously expelled from the Reich on Tuesday. The liberation took place on the anniversary of the burning down of the Reichstag. Their detention in Germany was much prolonged after the judicial acquittal because their own country of origin, Bulgaria, refused to permit them readmission.

The fact alone indicates the undesirable character of the three men but evidence at the Reichstag trial showed that their activities in Germany were such that their release within the Reich was out of the question. Delay at setting them free after the Court's acquittal was prolonged by tedious international formalities that has to be complied with after the Government of Soviet had conferred Russian citizenship upon them and declared they were prepared to accept them as residents.

The mystery surrounding the Reichstag fire has never been completely cleared up and comments from the German Press, on Tuesday night clearly shows that public opinion is far from convinced that all three of the accused were entirely free from suspicion of complicity.

One Berlin evening paper points out that all three of accused, but especially Dimitroff, took up such a defiant attitude during the trial and showed such lack of respect for authority of the Court that release in Germany would never have met with the sanction of German public opinion.—Trans-

During the same Cabinet meet-

Paris, Feb. 27.
The stain of the Stavisky scan-reaching men of prominent posi-

When the special Stavisky com-startling revelations were made by

FRICITION BETWEEN JAPAN AND RUSSIA

Aeroplane Incidents And Protest To Moscow

Tokyo, February 28. It is reported from Changchun that a Japanese military plane was shot down by Soviet troops on February 17 near the confluence of the Amur and Sungari Rivers and the crew killed.

The Japanese military authorities admit a plane was fired down, but deny any casualties.—Reuter.

Tokyo, February 28. Conflicting reports were received to-day, in regard to the shooting down of a Japanese plane, some reporting that all of the crew were killed while others say there were no casualties.

The newspaper "Jiji" reports that Mr. Ota, Japanese Ambassador at Moscow, has been instructed to file a strong protest in regard to Soviet planes crossing the Korean frontier.—Reuter.

Tokyo, February 28. A War Office spokesman confirmed the receipt of official reports to the effect that Soviet planes twice crossed the Korean border on February 23 and 25.—Reuter.

Tokyo, February 28. The Foreign Office has confirmed the instructions it is sending to the Ambassador in Moscow protesting against Soviet planes flying over the Korean-Manchukuo border.—Reuter.

BRITISH TREASURY RETURNS

London, February 27. The latest Treasury returns show that ordinary revenue for the current year up to 24th February amounted to £31,766,084. At the corresponding date of last year the amount stood at £33,749,452.

Ordinary expenditure to date for the current year totalled £696,392,255, as compared with £734,222,340 at the corresponding date last year.—British Wireless.

According to the 1933-34 budget, the estimated expenditure was £697,480,000 and estimated revenue was £712,730,000. As there are some four weeks before the closing of the financial year, there appears every chance of the revenue attaining the estimated figure.

PRINCE VISITS THE FAIR

Flight In Heavy Snowstorm

London, February 27. When the Prince of Wales flew in his private aeroplane to-day from Windsor to the British Industries Fair in Birmingham, he encountered snowstorms, heavy clouds and very bumpy conditions.

He made an extensive tour of the Fair and showed great interest in many of the displays, which are principally devoted at Birmingham to the heavy industries.

Both London sections of the Fair were to-day visited by the Prime Minister, who declared himself much impressed. "The Fair gets better every year," he said, "and it cheers me to hear of the great improvement in trade being done."—British Wireless Service.

LONDON HUNGER MARCHERS

Discussion In House Of Commons

London, February 27. Mr. Maxton's protest against the refusal of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald to receive a deputation from the hunger-marchers, was followed up by a discussion in the House of Commons.

When Mr. McGovern, the Labourite, asked the Prime Minister this afternoon that time should be given to discuss a proposal that representatives of the unemployed should be received at the bar of the House, Mr. MacDonald replied that the whole problem of unemployment was engaging the constant attention of the Government.

He added that the Bill now before Parliament was designed to make possible an improvement in the lot of those who were "unfortunately unemployed." "The views of all sections of the people," he went on, "are made known in this House through their elected representatives, and in the opinion of the Government no advantage would be gained by according to the honourable member's request."

After further discussion, it was arranged that the motion should be discussed at the conclusion of to-night's sitting, which is devoted to the committee stage, now approaching its close, of the Unemployment Bill.—British Wireless.

Adjournment Motion Defeated

London, February 28. The House of Commons, by 270 votes to 52, last night defeated the motion of the Left Wing member, Mr. G. Buchanan, for an adjournment of the House to call attention to the Prime Minister's refusal to receive a deputation from the Labour Opposition and the former Home Secretary, Sir Herbert Samuel amidst ironical cheers.

Mr. MacDonald, replying to the debate, said that previous Governments and the Trades Union Congress had refused to receive marchers.

He was convinced that it was no help to the unemployed to receive a deputation, either personally or at the bar of the House.

No Premier and no Government could countenance that kind of proceeding, which was inspired and controlled by subversive political forces, he declared.—Reuter.

General Stuart Appointed

London, Feb. 27. General Sir John Burnett Stuart has been appointed General Officer Commanding in Chief of the Southern Command, in succession to the late General Sir Percy Radcliffe.—British Wireless.

POSITION OF SILVER

Chinese Minister's Statement

Shanghai, February 28. It is reliably stated that the Chinese Government will to-morrow formally announce the ratification of the silver agreement despite the bankers' opposition.—Reuter.

Nanking, February 28. Announcing the decision to ratify the silver agreement, the Finance Minister of the Chinese Government, Mr. H. H. Kung, emphasises the necessity of currency stabilisation throughout the world. He says a big increase in silver price will be a mixed blessing for China, assisting imports, and probably adversely affecting exports.

He thinks the outflow of silver from China will be lessened and also recalls that during the peak prices in the silver world during war time China's exports found a ready market.

China did not have a static policy regarding the rising silver, but the policy was determined according to the conditions ruling at the time.

The embargo or export duty on silver was only one phase, the real essential being the stabilisation of currencies on which relief from the depression depended, and it was a violent fluctuation in silver which in recent years disturbed the international exchange.—Reuter.

U.S. LOAN TO CUBA

$20,000,000 To Buy Silver

New York, Feb. 28. Although the size of the silver deal with Cuba is undecided, a figure of 20,000,000 dollars is mentioned in well-informed circles.

According to the New York "Times," politically the scheme is likely to "allay opposition of the beet sugar growers to the Cuban sugar quota."—Reuter.

Washington, Feb. 28. It is expected that a Government loan of several million dollars will be made shortly to Cuba for the purchase of silver in the United States.

The exact amount is not revealed but it is believed the silver will be coined in Cuban dollars.—Reuter.

THREE BANKS FOR U.S. FOREIGN TRADE

Washington, Feb. 28. Three new banks are being created, one for foreign trade with Russia, one for Cuba and one for other foreign countries.—Reuter.

N.R.A. PUBLIC MEETINGS

Hundreds Of Critics Respond

Washington, February 28. Hundreds of critics of the National Recovery Administration have responded to the invitation of General Johnson to air their views in a series of public meetings which are expected to last until March 5 and are being broadcast throughout the country.—Reuter.

JAPANESE MINISTER TO RESIGN

Will Not Affect The Cabinet

Tokyo, February 28. In the Diet this morning, the Minister of Education, Mr. Hatoyama who was lately under fire on charges of graft, indicated the likelihood of resigning shortly, but well-informed circles believed that the resignation will not affect the cabinet.—Reuter.

Tokyo, February 28. Mr. Hatoyama, Minister of Education, has since indicated that he is resigning from the Cabinet on March 3.

The Premier is taking over the portfolio.—Reuter.

NAVY RELIEFS FOR CHINA

Leaving Home In March

London, Feb. 28. H.M.S. Calcutta is leaving for Hong Kong in March with reliefs for the Yangtze gunboats.—Reuter.

Pu Yi Receives Foreign Correspondents

PRESENCE OF WOMEN WRITERS EMBARRASSES COURT OFFICIAL

Changchun, February 28. "Mr. Henry Pu Yi to-day completed the third day of his purification in the ritual order to 'make himself worthy of worship and divinity.' To-morrow will be the termination of the period of fast and prayer."

The Emperor's first act was to receive the foreign correspondents. Pu Yi, who dressed in a Field Marshal's khaki uniform, saluted smartly and expressed appreciation to the correspondents who had come from all parts of the world and regretted that he could not talk to them individually.

He said: "I am so completely occupied with the enthronement details that every minute is precious."

The presence of a group of women writers created an embarrassing situation for the court officials who feared their presentation of the Emperor would break down the century-old court traditions.

The democratic young monarch quickly relieved the attendants' anxiety by ordering the women to be admitted.—Reuter.

A PUPPET OF JAPAN

Nanking, February 28. A statement to be issued by the Foreign Office to-morrow concerning the enthronement of Mr. Pu Yi says that the Chinese Government remains firm in their stand towards the bogus administration.

Manchuria was merely a puppet of the Japanese military authorities and China cannot recognise such an illegal institution.

Whether Pu Yi is "emperor or chief executive," he remains a puppet of Japan.—Reuter.

RETROCESSION OF KUPEIKOW

Postponed Until March 4

Peiping, February 28. Contrary to general expectation, Kupeikow was not returned to China this morning and the ceremony was postponed to March 4 at the request of the Japanese military authorities, because the barracks are not yet completed.—Reuter.

YANG CHIEH'S MISSION

Entertained In Turkey

Istanbul, February 28. Yang Chieh's Mission which left for Moscow was entertained by Kemal Pasha and all the principal Turkish Ministers.

Yang Chieh told Reuter he believes that Sino-Turkish diplomatic relations will soon be established.

Yang Chieh is due in England early in the spring.—Reuter.

EXILE FOR RUSSIAN EX-PREMIER

For Subversive Activities

Kovno, February 28. The military authorities have sent the ex-Premier Valdemaras from the Capital and ordered him to reside in the Provinces. He is alleged to be involved in anti-Government activities.—Reuter.

LITTLE ENTENTE AND THE SOVIET

Diplomatic Talk Between Ministers

Istanbul, Feb. 28. It is stated that the Foreign Minister, Tweek Ruzhdi Bey and Titulescu are shortly leaving for Moscow together, it is understood, to discuss with M. Litvinoff the resumption of diplomatic relations between the Soviet and the Little Entente.—Reuter.

HAPPY TO BE FREE

Fire Trial Accused Reach Moscow

Moscow, February 28. "We were in handcuffs for five months, except during meals," declared Dimitroff one of the accused acquitted at the Reichstag Fire Trial, in an interview with Reuter on his arrival here from Germany.

"We were not physically tortured," he said, "but sometimes moral and mental pressure can be much worse."

The two Bulgarians, who were also acquitted, are staying at the Hotel Lux, and are all bubbling over with pleasure at their freedom.

It is expected that to-morrow when the news of their arrival is announced, there will be a demonstration of joy throughout the country.

Dimitroff, who puffed ecstatically at a long cigar, was presented with bouquets from Lenin's widow and his sister.—Reuter.

SNOW-CLEANING ARMY

New York Enlists More Labour

New York, February 28. It has been decided to add 41,000 Civil Works Administration workers to the snow-cleaning army. This will make a total of 84,000 which is unprecedented in the City's history.

The task of clearing the snow in New York was expected to engage the attention of the existing gang for several days.—Reuter.

FRENCH BUDGET APPROVED

Paris, Feb. 28. The Senate by 296 votes to 13 passed the whole of the Budget, but the Chamber must discuss certain amendments.—Reuter.

HEAD OF U.S. FARMS

Additional Powers For Mr. Peek

Washington, February 28. In addition to the new financial appointments of the United States Farm Administrator, Mr. Peek, who is to head the new Import and export bank to assist American trade with Russia, will retain his position as foreign trade adviser. He will thus occupy well-nigh dictatorial authority in foreign trade.

In the light of Mr. Peek's declaration, yesterday evening, that agriculture must be restored to its proper position in the nation's life, it is clear that the Administration intends to subordinate the interests of industry to those of agriculture.

This will involve many tariff modifications, and it is expected that President Roosevelt's long awaited tariff message will be sent to Congress within the next few days, around which a real battle between the industrial and the agricultural interests will be waged.

Meanwhile, the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Henry C. Wallace, has forwarded to Mr. Jones, the Chairman of the House of Representatives Agriculture Committee, an amendment to the Farm Act, establishing compulsory control of all farms' production without additional legislation.

The amendment, which is expected to be introduced into the House to-morrow, permits the Secretary of Agriculture to establish quotas or allotments for any crop covered by license, and a marketing agreement following an agreement by two-thirds of the farmers affected.—Reuter.

SENATE VOTES CUT IN EXPENDITURE

Sanction Follows French Premier's Threat

Paris, February 28. The Senate by 277 votes to 19 gave the Government full powers to cut the expenditure by a decree until June 30.

The vote followed a declaration by M. Doumergue that he would resign unless he obtained full powers.—Reuter.

The Army Point-to-Point

In the "Big Races" excitement which holds Hong Kong at the moment the Army Point-to-Point meeting near Fanling on Sunday may have escaped its due notice. Nevertheless it was a page in the equine history of Hong Kong in that it was the first Army point-to-point in the Colony. It was none of your billiard-table "walk this way please" down a lane of red and white flags.

In four out of the five races two flags were erected in the middle of the countryside, round which the competitors had to ride, picking their own line, while in the Open Race one flag only was used.

The attendance was, of course, rather spilt by the heavy rain, but 200 waterproofed watchers gave enthusiastic support to the meeting. The 1/8ths Furlongs were at Home and put up a first class show in a marquee at the foot of the Grand Stand. Their warm welcome must have saved many of the spectators from pneumonia. After the last Race, Mrs. Borrett kindly presented the prizes, and was heartily cheered for so doing. The first race, was for the South Wales Borderers' Challenge Cup. Lt. Col. Rakkes rode well to bring Winchester Stag first past the post. Next came the Navy race, in which Lt. Comdr. Baker scored a brilliant but impulsive win on his good pony Malakki. The Open Race, around one flag, produced two distinct schools of thought. The field split in sunder and were half a mile apart at one time. Eventually Mr. Morris, who goes very well indeed across country brought Lt. Col. Marsh's Tommy home to the despair of the punters. The tote paid 30 to 1 on this race.

like field Mrs. Williams, wife of the Master of the Fanling Hunt, was first on Golden Star, fairly closely followed by Miss Scott-Harston and Miss Beryl Fair.

The last race was the Ubique Cup for Gunners. Capt. Williams' experience enabled him to bring home the bacon in spite of giving away over 20 lbs. to the rest of the field.

A surprising feature were the big prices paid by the tote, which goes to show that in this type of race the rider matters every bit as much as the pony. Although there were few enough falls, there is no doubt that these races will teach the "follow on" rider to pick a line of his or her own, and to come to regard the reins as a means of guidance rather than a precaution against hitting the ground.

NEXT MEETING The next Point-to-Point, run by the Master of the Fanling Hunt, will be held on March 25 near 17 Pine Tree Hill. The conditions will be published later, but the point-to-point Committee implore riders, especially ladies:

(1) To find out what, when, and at what weight they are riding.

(2) To arrange for their horses to have saddles and bridles, weight cloths and other indispensable of every well bred horse.

(3) Not to regard the Committee as Fairy Godmothers. They have their own work to do.

HOME FOOTBALL

Blackpool once had a supporter who fired blank shots from a pistol every time the side scored.

There is no truth in the rumour that Cyril Stocks, the Nottingham Forest inside left, will cross the Trent to join the County.

Mr. W. McCracken, Millwall's manager, was again at Margate recently to watch two local players.

Many could not understand why G. W. C. Melkie failed so badly as a place-kicker against Wales at Cardiff. The explanation is that he was wearing unusually long studs.

Three of the Navy's old Rugby internationals are still doing fine work for the game. Freddie Gilbert looks after Devonport Services E. R. Gardner does the same for R.N.E. College (Keyham), and V. G. E. Luddington coaches Dulwich College.

Roy Heyland, the Liverpool University and Lancashire three-quarter, who has dislocated his shoulder three times this season, is to be operated upon next week.

the play, and it was just as well that Priestley maintained his fine form. As a finished footballer Priestley stood right out.

Generally speaking Chelsea were unlucky not to win, and in the second half Notts Forest had to concentrate upon defence.

GALLACHER'S MISTAKE Gallacher was given no chance of shooting and being so well marked the Chelsea forward would have been more useful had he opened out the game more.

A FEAST OF GOALS Earlier in the season supporters of Millwall were complaining about the scarcity of goals scored on the New Cross ground. Since the middle of December, Millwall have gradually made amends in this direction, and there was a real feast of goals in their cup-tie.

Unfortunately, for Millwall, six of the nine goals were scored by Leicester City.

MILLWALL FIGHT BACK The game was full of thrills and although Leicester fully deserved to win, Millwall were by no means outplayed as the score would suggest.

In fact, they deserve great credit for fighting back in the second half, when the score was 5-1 against them and everything seemed lost. Not only did they score two further goals, but by clever football and whole-hearted endeavour had the Leicester defence fighting for all they were worth.

DEFENSIVE WEAKNESS A defence, that concedes six goals must have some weakness, and in Millwall's case it can be traced to the uncertain play of Pipe and Forsyth in the first half.

There was no weakness in the Millwall attack, for all the forwards showed ability, and Alexander, who was at outside-right in place of Bond, was a decided success.

French Ministers' Salaries: Mr. Baldwin's Little Lapse: William Morris Centenary: A President At Lunch: Prince Invited To Canada

(Special Air-Mail Service)

FRENCH MINISTERS' SALARIES

French Cabinet Ministers' emoluments, however much the Royalists may denounce the "robbers" were never particularly attractive to successful professional men.

Before the war a French Minister was paid 60,000 francs a year, or $2,400 (at par). To-day he receives 180,000 francs, or approximately $2,250 at the present rate of exchange.

But each member of the Cabinet enjoys the free use of a motor-car with chauffeur, while certain Ministers have at their disposal an official residence with a domestic staff.

Ministers, like other public officials in France, are paid monthly, and whether the Cabinet of which they are members resigns on the first or the last day of the month, are entitled to the full salary for that month.

"ENDEAVOUR'S" RIVALS

The announcement of the entrants for the big class in the coming yachting season indicates the competitors which Mr. Sopwith's Cup challenger Endeavour will have in her preliminary trials.

After being tested in the Solent in May Endeavour is expected to sail her first official race against Britannia, Velsheda, Shamrock, Candida, and Astor at Harwich Regatta on June 2. On June 12 the Royal Thames Yacht Club is giving a special trial race between her and her sister "J" class yacht, Mr. W. L. Stephenson's Velsheda.

This event will be over a thirty-mile course, as nearly similar to an America's Cup course as can be arranged.

The Endeavour will sail a member of trial duels with Velsheda in regattas at Torquay and in the West of England.

Her final race before being prepared for her transatlantic voyage will probably be in Portsmouth Regatta, at Spithead on July 14.

The crisis in Paris is not ended by M. Doumergue's return to politics.

The parties which claim to represent the industrial population, and of the Radicals, the party of the small shopkeepers and peasant farmers: are in open opposition to the latest regime.

The parties of the Left now threaten to continue in the Chamber and in the streets of Paris, the violent assault on authority, which has hitherto been mainly conducted by the Right.

The General Confederation of Labour, a body ordinarily submissive to the Government, has proclaimed a general strike for Monday.

Is Communist rival, the Unitarian Confederation, has ordered a more immediate strike to-morrow.

And M. Leon Blum's Socialist Party have called a general demonstration in the Place de la Bastille to-night.

Frenchmen! This is where you have led in a fall growing ever more rapid, by 60 years of Republicanism and party government. Frenchmen of all parties, of all conditions, of all origins, this is the hour in which you should rally to the Monarchic principle on which the greatness of France was founded and preserved for centuries and which alone can ensure peace, order, justice, and continuity of design and of action.

Tall, bearded, and distinguished-looking, the Duc is an admirable landlord in Belgium and Morocco. His hobby is the collection of lead soldiers of the periods of the Revolution and the Empire.

Visitors to his admirably run estates at La Roche, in Spanish Morocco, can see these soldiers there, together with a wonderful collection of old French flags.

A PRESIDENT AT LUNCH

M. Doumergue will command more affection than M. Poincare, if no less respect.

His smiling face, his glossy top hat, his sturdy, well-groomed figure, are affectionately greeted in France. He was for seven years the most popular French President since Louis.

Within a week of his election to the Elysee he broke with the traditions of that office by luncheon with a few friends of his senatorial days in a restaurant just off the boulevards.

Another Paris restaurant in which he frequently appeared during his presidential period was famed for a dressing-station during the present disturbances.

M. Doumergue entered the Elysee as bachelor. He returns his duties as Premier a married man.

Mme. Doumergue, whom he married a few days before he left the Presidency to retire to his modest villa at Tournefeuille, was for many years a teacher in a girls' secondary school in Paris.

The crisis in Paris is not ended by M. Doumergue's return to politics.

The parties which claim to represent the industrial population, and of the Radicals, the party of the small shopkeepers and peasant farmers: are in open opposition to the latest regime.

PRINCE INVITED TO CANADA

The Prince of Wales has received an invitation to visit Canada during this summer.

Canada is having a number of celebrations this year. These include ceremonies in connection with the centenary of Toronto and the quarter-centenary of the landing of Carib in Canada. Ambitious plans are afoot, those responsible for the arrangements are very anxious that the Mother Country should be represented by a member of the royal family.

Invitations have been received by Mr. J. E. Thomas, as Secretary of State for the Dominions, and other Ministers. One of the Guards bands will likely go over to Canada for three months, as the celebrations will continue from June to August.

KOWLOON RESIDENTS' ASSOCIATION

The Report of the General Committee for the year is as follows:—

A feature of the year for which the Committee here presents its Annual Report has been the continued steady expansion and development of Kowloon which is still very evident in all directions. New blocks of flats continue to spring up all over the Peninsula, while the suburban areas in the vicinity of Prince Edward Road and similar districts are daily becoming more populous; with the erection of houses, villas and bungalows along this fine thoroughfare, and the colony of bungalows which is springing up on the Castle Peak Road, new residential areas are coming into being which compare favourably with any existing localities.

The Budget proposals for 1934, as outlined in the Estimates approved during the year, bring us a step nearer to many amenities the necessity for which has been consistently advocated by this Association. It is gratifying to note the provision made for an extension of the Hospital facilities, the further widening of Waterloo Road, additional typhoon warning, and the erection of a "temporary" Post Office Building.

The brief summary which follows necessarily omits many details of the various matters dealt with during the year, and members are recommended to the full correspondence published in the Appendices for a complete survey of the work done.

"Star" Ferry Approach.—The lease on the advertisement hoarding at this point having expired, and understanding that the Alex. Ross Garage was now on a monthly tenancy, Government were approached with a request that our suggestion for widening the "bottle neck" be considered again. In reply, your Committee were informed that it was considered there was not sufficient traffic to justify the expense. The request for an extension of the covered way at the "Star" Ferry was also raised again this year, and Government advised that the item was deleted from the Draft Estimates for 1933, but will be further considered at a later date. Both these items will be taken up again when the Estimates are under review.

In July your Committee approached the Divisional Superintendent of Police, Kowloon, with a request that small taxis be introduced at the "Star" Ferry. After correspondence on the subject it was referred to The Hon. The Inspector General of Police, who eventually agreed to this service.

Jordan Road Ferry Approach.—As foreseen in our report for 1932, the layout of this area is in agreement with the scheme recommended by the Association, and is working most satisfactorily. During the year your Committee approached the Bus Company with a view to improving the bus service to this terminus, and were assured that everything possible would be done.

Bus Services.—In response to numerous complaints regarding the running of the bus services on the Peninsula, your Committee wrote to the Bus Company and also interviewed the Authorities in an effort to try and improve these services. These efforts, together with action by the Police and residents, have undoubtedly resulted in a better service generally. In November attempts were made to have the Kowloon Tong service improved. The Divisional Superintendent of Police, Kowloon, advised that whilst he would endeavour to have an improvement made in this service, he could not agree to the suggestion made by us for the abolition of Route No. 8. It will be noted that new Time Schedules are at present under consideration by Government.

Central British School.—In March your Committee were advised that Government's decision to erect a Mental Hospital on the site prepared for the Central British School was irrevocable. In view of this your Committee could only express its keen regret at the action taken and the hope that work on the new site would be pushed forward with all possible speed. With this point in mind we requested permission to view the plans prepared and were referred to our representative on the Board of Education. A special sub-committee was appointed to go into this matter, and subsequently a series of questions was placed before the Board of Education, which resulted in your Committee sending a strong recommendation to Government that the whole area available be definitely allotted for the proposed school immediately. The position at the moment is that Government have definitely allotted an area of 5.8 acres for playing fields, and provisionally reserved a further 9 acres, which could be used if necessary. Your Committee have recommended that the whole of this 14.8 acres be allotted immediately, and that the North West boundary be so altered that still further space be made available. Progress of the work on this School will continue to receive close attention (Appendix D).

Playgrounds.—The supervision of the Children's Playgrounds has been carefully watched during the past year, and sundry small matters requiring attention have been brought to the notice of the Authorities. As a result of our request for better general supervision, the Custodian Recreation Grounds, Kowloon, is now responsible for the supervision of all Children's Playgrounds.

The Association was represented at the inaugural meeting of the Children's Playgrounds Association and was asked to appoint a representative to serve on their Committee. This was done and your Committee also made a grant of $250 towards this movement. Close contact is being kept with this body, and it will be noted that three playing fields sponsored by that Association are now in operation on the Peninsula. (Appendix E).

Hospitals.—In March a complaint as to the admission of a Chinese resident to the Kowloon Hospital was referred to the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, who advised that the procedure adopted was quite correct. (In view of its personal nature, this correspondence does not appear).

Arising therefrom however, it again appeared that there is a marked disinclination on the part of large numbers of Chinese to avail themselves of treatment at the Kwong Wah Hospital, and that the facilities available at this Hospital were not fully known to medical practitioners.

On taking up the question with the Tung Wah Hospital Committee we were informed that a committee of investigation was now going into the whole question, and that the points submitted by this Association would be carefully considered. We have no doubt that as a result of the work of this committee the conditions in this Hospital will be improved. Copies of the correspondence on this subject were sent to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs for information.

It will be noted that, as yet, it is not the intention of Government to introduce a Public Dispensary in the Trim Sha Tsui district; the provision made in the 1934 estimates for an extension of the Out-patient's Department at the Kowloon Hospital will however help to offset the lack of this amenity. With the completion of the new buildings at this Hospital, the opening of the Maternity Ward, for so long an urgent need of the Peninsula, cannot be much further delayed. (Appendix F).

Chatham Road Sea Frontage.—The coal dump controversy will be fresh in the minds of all members. A large number of complaints were received both from members and non-members on this subject, and, while enquiring into these complaints, the officials of the Association came in contact with the convicts of a public protest meeting called for 1st August. At their invitation the President of the Association presided at this meeting, where a resolution of protest was passed, and a deputation to the Colonial Secretary appointed, which included the President of the K. R. A. Subsequent to their interview we were informed that His Excellency the Governor had given instructions for the coal to be removed. This Association then recommended that the area under discussion be developed as a Public Park.

MENINGITIS SCARE

18 Cases Last Week

According to the latest figures issued by Medical Officer of Health, Hong Kong is at present experiencing an outbreak of cerebro-spinal meningitis. During last week, 18 cases, with six deaths, were notified, ten of the cases being from Kowloon, four from Victoria and the other four from the New Territories.

Five further cases were reported on Monday, two each from Kowloon, and the New Territories, and the other from Victoria. Five more cases were reported on Tuesday.

Small Pox And Others.—There were also nine cases (8 deaths) from small-pox last week, five of diphtheria (three deaths) and one each of paratyphoid fever and rabies (animal). Forty-seven deaths occurred from tuberculosis.

On Monday, three cases each of Small-pox, diphtheria and typhoid were reported.

This suggestion has been since discussed with Government, but is still pending.

Sanitary Measures.—The question of offensive smells in Kowloon from various causes was referred to the Head of the Sanitary Department, with a request for amelioration. As there appeared to be some doubt as to the responsibility for the removal of certain rubbish in the Colony, this point was brought to the notice of the Colonial Secretary. In reply we were advised that a new dump was to be prepared at Kowloon Tong, and that a new system of dumping was to be instituted, which it is hoped will improve the position. An enquiry as to the method of cleansing the drains in Kowloon remains unanswered at the time of publication of this report.

Noises, Etc.—Your Committee received numerous complaints regarding the annoyance caused by the introduction of public dancing establishments in Kowloon, and this matter was referred to the Colonial Secretary, with a recommendation that such establishments be restricted to non-residential areas. Government Regulations controlling these premises were subsequently issued, and the nuisance has considerably abated.

Complaints of a recurrence of unnecessary whistling by locomotives were brought to the notice of the Railway authorities, who took immediate steps to eradicate the cause for complaint.

Sundry individual complaints of noises in the residential areas were also dealt with during the year.

Traffic, Roads and Street Lighting.—A number of minor points arising in regard to Traffic were taken up directly with the Traffic Department, whose officials co-operated most courteously in all cases. The introduction of "islands" in Nathan Road was not regarded favourably by the Association, the danger of being in our opinion far in excess of any possible advantage. This view was shared by the Hong Kong Automobile Association, who also made representations on the subject to the Police Department. We are pleased to note that the sign finally established at Jordan Road, and those introduced at other points, are considerably smaller than the original erection.

The bad surfacing of the roads in certain parts of the Peninsula, particularly the Castle Peak Road, was gone into by your Committee, who ascertained that submissions in regard thereto had already been made to Government by the Automobile Association. As an improvement in the methods of surfacing was noted, no further action was taken by the Association.

The defective street lighting in Kowloon has for some time past caused grave concern, and at the latter end of the year, a special sub-committee was appointed to co-operate with a sub-committee of the Automobile Association in an endeavour to formulate suggestions for improvement. The recently introduced improvements in this direction in England were carefully studied, and the installation of gaseous discharge lamps, giving a greatly increased lighting area with more evenly distributed light, was strongly advocated in a joint letter to Government from the two Associations.

TYROL UNDER A HOME FOOTBALL GOVERNOR

Local Parliament Dissolved

Vienna, February 28.
The move towards a corporative state has been made in the Tyrol where the Landtag or Local Parliament was voluntarily dissolved and delegated its functions to a local Governor who will take three Heimwehr representatives into the local Government.

He will then nominate the so-called Advisory Committee of twelve members consisting of workers, traders, and professional clergy on a guild basis, which will function temporarily pending reconstruction of all Local Parliaments on a guild basis as demanded by the Heimwehr.—Reuter.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Eight cases of small-pox (one imported), three of diphtheria, six of cerebro-spinal fever and 57 of tuberculosis were reported for the week ended February 24.

The Hong Kong Horticultural Society's 1934 Flower Show will be held at the Volunteers Headquarters, Garden Road, on Wednesday, March 7, from 3 p.m. to 6.30 p.m.

It is announced that there will be no "T.M.N." service in the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden Chinese Restaurant on Friday, the 2nd March, owing to the reservation of the Restaurant by the Rotary Club. The naval authorities have decided to give another searchlight display on Saturday evening, March 3, from all warships in harbour on an even bigger scale than that of Navy Day. On Sunday two ships will be open for view to the public.

desirability of advertisement hoardings at the junction of Waterloo Road and Prince Edward Road was brought to the notice of the landlords, and we are pleased to note the hoardings erected have now been removed.

On the expiry of his term of office, we again nominated Mr. B. Wylie as our representative on the Board of Education, his appointment thereto by His Excellency the Governor being subsequently gazetted.

In June, your Committee were glad to be able to extend to The Honourable Sir W. T. Southern, K.B.E., C.M.G., the congratulations of the Association on the honour bestowed upon him by His Majesty the King. The good wishes for the continued success of the Association expressed in Sir Thomas' reply were much appreciated by our members.

The provision in the 1934 Estimates for the erection of a Typhoon Signal in the Kowloon City district, as advocated by this Association in 1930, is a step further forward in Kowloon amenities. It will be noted that it has been decided to erect this signal to the N.E. of La Salle College, instead of on the site previously selected outside the Kowloon City Police Station.

As a result of complaints that the Bund at Kowloon City was being used for unauthorized stone breaking and storage of contractors' gear etc., thus depriving the residents nearby of its use as a promenade and recreation area, representations were made to the Authorities concerned, who took prompt action in removing the offenders.

The Association has continued to support the work of the New Territories Agricultural Association, several of our members serving on the General Committee of that body in addition to our official representative thereon. A grant of $200 was again made from the funds of this Association to assist them in their work.

In conclusion, we would express our thanks to the officials of all Government Departments and Public Utility Companies with whom we have come in contact during the year for their invaluable courtesy and the careful consideration afforded to any matter placed before them; thanks are also due to the Council of St. Andrew's Church for the continued use of the Church Hall for meetings.

Review Of Prospects For This Season

London, Feb. 28.
Although three-quarters of the Home Football season has passed, it is most difficult to name the teams due for promotion and relegation.

In the First Division the Arsenal has played 30 games with 41 points. They did not play with last year's brilliance, but they possess the happy knack of winning with unimpressive play, being tipped to bring off the great Cup and League "double," but the additional Cup burden may have the greatest strain on the players and jeopardise their League chances as the slightest slip will be costly.

Both Derby and Huddersfield with 39 points each in 30 games, are waiting to jump in. Derby appear to be cracking up. Huddersfield have a fine chance. The "Spurs" with 35 points in 31 games, are youthful and speedy. They need the steady influence of an old head in attack which is wasting excellent chances.

Chelsea, with 20 points in 29 games, are in danger of relegation, but have the advantage of two games in hand.

Sheffield United, with 22 points in 31 games, are in a most open position.

Liverpool have 24 points in 31 games, while Birmingham managed to gather 25 points in 30 games.

In the Second Division Grimsby, who have 43 points in 30 games, are marching on and appear certain of promotion, probably accompanied by Brentford, who with 37 points in 30 games are keeping up a sustained effort and are well equipped to outlast the struggle which should reach a critical point at Easter.

Preston who are engaged in the Cup have a total of 36 points in 30 games. Blackpool, 35 points in 30 games, and Lincoln, 20 points in 30 games, will probably be relegated despite their work in defence which is one of the best in the League.

Famous Manchester United, 21 points in 30 games, are in a desperate plight as their reorganisation has apparently failed.

Millwall hold 24 points in 29 games, and Notts Forest have a total of 24 points in 30 games.

Norwich, 44 points in 30 games, who are managed by Parker, old Arsenal Captain, are heading for promotion without looking back from the beginning of the season.

Queen's Park Rangers, 39 points in 29 games, are pressing close. Coventry have 37 points in 30 games. Reading 38 points in 29 games. Cardiff, 17 points in 29 games, who once distinguished themselves by reaching the First from the Third Division in consecutive seasons, may have to apply for re-election, in which case they will probably drop out as they are in financial difficulties.

Boscombe have 21 points in 29 games. Newport 22 points in 29 games. Torquay 23 points in 29 games.

Chesterfield, with 45 points in 30 games, show no signs of cracking up and are hanging on to the lead, but Stockport, 42 points in 29 games, and Barnsley, 42 points in 30 games, are waiting for the slightest slip. Walsall have 39 points in 30 games.

Rochdale, 19 points in 30 games, are in dire financial difficulties and will probably drop out of the League. Rotherham have 20 points in 29 games.

In the Scottish League Motherwell, with 51 points in 30 games and the Rangers with 48 points in 28 games are in a ding-dong struggle. They are a distinct contrast in sides. Motherwell are a strong attacking force, while the Rangers have chiefly defensive strength. The championship will probably not be decided until the final matches.

Aberdeen with 38 points in 30 games and Cowdenbeath are doomed for relegation, the latter having only 13 points in 30 games. Third Lanark are better off with 17 points in 28 games.—Reuter.

A METAL THAT ABSORBS DYE LIKE CLOTH

Perfected In Colours That Will Never Fade

I am able to give details of a new process for "dyeing" and hardening aluminium—perfected after 28 years of research by British chemists which, it is claimed, will have far-reaching effects upon the motorcar and airplane industry.

Architectural and interior decorating methods.

Electrical engineering practice.

The manufacture of domestic hardware, and buttons, shoe-buckles and every sort of decorative article.

It is claimed that the process produces fade-proof, scratch-proof and everlasting aluminium objects in any colour, since it involves the absorption of the dye by the metal, the colour of which becomes an integral part of its structure and cannot be affected unless the metal itself is torn.

Briefly, the process consists of dyeing the "oxide" or rust that forms on aluminium. This oxide, unlike the rust of iron and other metals, is colourless, and can therefore be dyed any colour with absolute tone-accuracy.

Since the normal film of aluminium oxide is only about one-millionth of an inch thick, artificial methods have to be adopted to increase the deposit. This was the technical problem which has held up the chemists for nearly 30 years.

It has now been solved. The aluminium, either in sheet form or as a finished object, is dipped for a few minutes into an "electrolytic" bath of sulphuric acid solution, which forms a layer of oxide just over one thousandth of an inch thick. The sheet or object is then transferred to a bath of ordinary dye, which is absorbed by the oxide skin.

No Corrosion

The final process "fixes" the dye by "closing down" the microscopic crystals of the oxide layer on to the dye particles, holding them trapped.

In addition, this thin oxide layer can be made two-and-a-half times as hard as "razor steel," and capable of resisting abrasion longer than any other material known. It is also proof against corrosion.

These aspects are of vital importance to the airplane and automobile industries. No substance has yet been found which can be made into, say, a seaplane hull which will resist the corroding action of salt water. The new aluminium will, made into pistons for internal combustion engines, it will last and last almost indefinitely. Used in sheet form for motorcar bodies, it will retain its gloss and colour unscathed until the car's life is over.

For only by destroying the metal itself can you harm its colour and finish.

Its value for the construction of unbreakable and beautiful crockery, household and kitchen utensils is obvious, as is its possible application to interior decoration. Even furniture, scratch-, burn-, stain- and fade-proof, can be made from it.

The architect can employ the new aluminium with the maximum decorative effect for roof tiles, window frames, door frames, banisters, and a hundred different purposes.

Buttons, Too

The range of possibilities is almost unlimited. To-day I saw brightly coloured cocktail-shakers, ashtrays, jugs, buckles, buttons, lamps and boxes made of the new material. The buttons, which were stamped with an embossed design, were of exactly the same appearance as silk or satin covered ones.

The extremely thin layer of oxide is an insulator of electricity, although aluminium itself is an efficient conductor. I am informed that this fact will effect a 60 per cent. saving in weight in some electrical apparatus, and a consequent increase in the safe speed of moving parts.

BERLIN BOURSE

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright)]

Berlin, Feb. 27.

Once again the Sharemarket was very buoyant, rising up to 3 per cent. being common. The favourable tendency was chiefly due to the publication of particulars of the plan for co-operation between German and Polish Governments to create mutual friendly feelings between the general public of the two countries and try to settle all outstanding differences by an amicable arrangement. Demand for fixed interest securities was small hence prices tended to tumble. Call Money 4 1/2 to 5 1/2.
